							interactions that occur online between individuals, businesses, devices, data and processes. The foundation of the digital economy is hyperconnectivity – highly interconnected people and organizations – through the use of the Internet, mobile technologies, and the internet of things.  Technology tends to advance quickly, while workers' skills, firms and governments tend to move at a slower pace. The gap between rapidly evolving technology and slower-moving human development will wilden in future decades as exponential advances in artificial intelligence, robots, networks, analytics, and digitization have an increasing impact on society and the economy. This course will focus on three problems in moving and the economy. This course will focus on three problems in moving
