

Curtis Reed, Jr.

Managing Director and Region Manager–Chicago JPMorgan Chase & Co.

Curtis Reed is Managing Director and Region Manager in Chicago. He has 27 years of experience in the banking industry and 19 of those years have been with JPMorgan Chase and predecessor organizations.

Reed has spent his entire career in commercial banking, holding a variety of different positions during that time. In March 2017, Reed was named to his current role as the Region Manager for Chase's Middle Market banking operations for the Chicago Region. Prior to this, Reed was the Region Manager for Chase's Middle Market banking operations for the states of Arizona and Nevada. In his current role, Reed is responsible for overseeing and leading the Bank's efforts to serve and develop relationship with companies that have annual revenues between $20 million and $500 million in Chicago, IL. Reed also serves on JPMorgan Chase's Illinois Market Leadership team, the Chicago Inclusion Action Committee, the Chicago Executive Committee, and is the Executive DEI lead for Chicago.

Reed currently serves on the board of the Civic Consulting Alliance, the advisory board for After School Matters, the board of The Wellness House, is a member of the Steering Committee for the Together We Rise Fund, is a member of the Chicago Community Trust's Bank Trustees Committee, member of the board for Local Initiatives Support Corp (LISC), and a 2022 Daniel Burnham Fellow for Leadership Greater Chicago (LGC). He is also a member of the Young President's Organization.

A native of Naperville, IL, Reed earned his Bachelor of Arts Degree in Finance at the University of Iowa in June 1995.