

Stacey Valy Panayiotou

Chief Human Resources Officer
Ball Corporation

Stacey Valy Panayiotou serves as the Chief Human Resources Officer for Ball Corporation. Ball Corporation is one of the world's leading suppliers of aluminum packaging for the beverage, personal care and household products industries. Ball's sustainable, aluminum packaging products are produced for a variety of end uses and are manufactured in facilities around the world. Ball also provides aerospace and other technologies and services to the U.S. government through its aerospace segment. The company is headquartered just outside of Denver, Colorado.

In this role, she is responsible for leading the end-to-end function globally to achieve the company's people ambition. Reporting to the CEO, she plays a critical role in enabling the company strategy through its nearly 24,000 employees globally.

Prior to her role at Ball, she spent almost 3 years as EVP & CHRO of Graphic Packaging International in Atlanta. Prior to that, she spent 13 years with The Coca-Cola Company, where she held a variety of senior HR leadership roles, including global vice president and head of Talent and Development and vice president, HR, Europe, Middle East, and Africa, which consisted of over 120 countries. Prior to her global talent position, she served as vice president of Talent and Development, Organizational Effectiveness and Diversity and Inclusion, and Learning for the Coca-Cola North America Group. Prior to that, she was vice president of HR for the West business unit of Coca-Cola Enterprises Inc. (CCE) and worked in corporate HR with The Coca-Cola Company.

Panayiotou holds two master's degrees from Loyola University Chicago (Institute of Human Resources & Industrial Relations) and a Bachelor of Business Administration from the University of Iowa. She is married to Drew Panayiotou and has one son, Alex. In her free time, she loves to spend time enjoying the outdoors, gourmet cooking, and volunteering.