Higher ed and public policy graduate with a passion for aiding students as they navigate their collegiate journeys with purpose, meaning, and support.

I am the Assistant Director of the Emmett J. Vaughan Institute of Risk Management and Insurance. I began this role in June '23 following my graduation from the University of Iowa with my bachelor's degrees in English Literature and Spanish, and master's degrees in Higher Education and Student Affairs, as well as Public Policy. As the Assistant Director of the Vaughan Institute, I work closely with our faculty and executive director to ensure that the students in our Risk Management and Insurance program have a positive experience that prepares them for roles in the Risk Management and Insurance sector following graduation.

My daily duties involve all things student-facing including academic advising, overseeing our Risk Management and Insurance student fraternity, Gamma Iota Sigma, and bridging the gap between higher education institutions and industry to assure students are career-ready as they enter the workforce. While new to the RMI industry, I am excited to holistically support students as they embark on their professional journeys by connecting them to industry mentors and seasoned subject matter experts.

In my free time, I enjoy reading, crafting, and spending time with my family and friends. It is a privilege to be working alongside a team and industry that is working to make the world safer, smarter, and more secure, and I am delighted to play just a small role in the development of the next generation of RMI leaders.
