

John Bozec

Senior Vice President and General Manager, Van Truckload and Mexico Schneider

John Bozec is senior vice president/general manager of Van Truckload and Mexico at Schneider, a premier multimodal provider of transportation, logistics and related services. In this position, Bozec is responsible for all aspects of the North American Van/Truckload division, which includes Dedicated services as well as Schneider's Mexico segment. Within his functional responsibilities, he ensures that the driver and trailers in Schneider's largest division are effectively managed within the Schneider network in order to meet service, asset utilization and profitability objectives.

Previously, Bozec served as senior vice president /general manager of Schneider's Bulk Division. While in this role, Bozec oversaw all aspects of the company's Bulk business, including sales and marketing, operations and customer service.

Bozec began his professional career with Schneider in 1994 as a service team leader in the company's Des Moines facility. Since then, he has held leadership positions in brokerage, sales, customer service and operations – including time spent as a regional vice president within Truckload Services.

Prior to joining Schneider, Bozec was a district supervisor for Aldi Foods and had store accountability in central and north central Iowa.

Bozec is a member of the University of Iowa Management & Entrepreneurship Advisory Committee. Additionally, he serves on the advisory board for the Salvation Army of Greater Green Bay and the Forestry Resource Association Board of Directors. He holds a bachelor's degree in economics from the University of Iowa, an MBA from the University of Wisconsin–Oshkosh and has attended programs on corporate governance at Harvard University.
